Ellie Pell is the first woman to win the 50k Ultra outright, blasting past runner-up Richard Ellsworth in the four-hour endurance race. Pell took home both the 1st place trophy and the “fastest lady” trophy; unfortunately for Richard, race organizers never anticipated a woman might win, so no corresponding prize exists for gents.

"She also broke the overall course record by a massive 12 hours, completing the 268 mile challenge in 83h 12m 23s."
